1. Policy Statement

Ivy House School is committed to providing an environment free from bullying and to creating a culture of tolerance and understanding where all pupils feel safe and confident in raising any concerns. We believe that a culture and ethos of tolerance and understanding regardless of age, special needs or disability, racial/cultural heritage, religious belief or sexual orientation is central to our anti-bullying approach. This Anti-Bullying Policy forms a fundamental part of our approach to providing excellent pastoral care to all pupils.

Key documents with which this Policy is in accordance:

- Children Act 1989
- Education and Inspections Act 2006
- The Equality Act 2010
- Education Act 2011
- Working Together to Safeguard Children February 2018
- DfE Preventing and Tackling Bullying July 2017
- Education (Independent Schools Standards) (England) Regulations 2014
- Keeping Children Safe in Education 2024
- Independent Schools Inspectorate Handbook April 2024 – The Regulatory Requirements

Bullying can be a form of child on child abuse and staff should be aware that bullying could become a safeguarding issue. This policy should be read in conjunction with school's Safeguarding Policy - where minimising risks of child on child abuse are outlined, along with more specific support examples.

2. Aims

Ivy House School regards any form of bullying, including the use of electronic media, as harmful and unacceptable. We believe that everyone has a right to feel safe. The School does not tolerate bullying of any kind.

The aims of this policy are:

- To promote good and tolerant behaviours based on the school aims
 - to try to prevent bullying, as far as possible and
 - to help staff, pupils and parents to deal with bullying when it occurs

Our community is based upon respect, good manners, fair play and mutual tolerance. The school and Inspired Education are committed to providing a safe and caring environment that is free from disruption, violence and any form of harassment so that every one of our pupils can develop her full potential.

This ethos means that:

Inspired Education Group UK

- Bullying of any kind, harassment, victimisation and discrimination are not acceptable and will not be tolerated
- We seek to treat all our pupils and their parents fairly and with consideration and we expect them to reciprocate towards each other, the staff and the school
- We expect our pupils to treat members of staff with courtesy and to co-operate so that they can learn in a relaxed; but orderly, atmosphere. All pupils are encouraged and expected to care for and support each other
- We believe parents/guardians have an important role in supporting the school in maintaining high standards of behaviour. It is essential that school and home have consistent expectations of behaviour and co-operate closely together
- We have full regard to relevant legislation, guidance and the Independent Schools Standards regulations listed above in Section 1, with which this policy complies. The policy will be regularly reviewed and updated in accordance with national standards and guidance
- Our anti-bullying approach also involves other school policies, especially the Behaviour and Sanctions Policy, Safeguarding Policy, Equal Opportunities Policy, School Rules and E-Safety Policy
- We use PSHEE lessons and activities, assemblies, projects, stories and literature, current affairs, historical events, tutorials and other curriculum approaches to help create a tolerant culture where bullying is most likely to be prevented in the first place and where incidents of bullying can be appropriately discussed as part of learning
- We train staff to recognise the potential signs of bullying and how to deal with it when it occurs through the Induction Programme at the start of each year and the issues are revisited annually when the policy is updated
- Systems are established to fully and sensitively investigate any incidents of alleged bullying in accordance with this protocol summarised below in Sections 4 and 5
- Allegations of bullying can be brought to the attention of staff either by the victim(s), their friend(s) or their parent(s)/guardian(s)

3. What is bullying?

Bullying is behaviour by an individual or group, that intentionally hurts another individual or group either physically or emotionally. Bullying can take many forms (for instance, cyber-bullying via text messages or the internet), and is often motivated by prejudice against particular groups, for example on grounds of race, religion, gender, sexual orientation, or because a child is adopted or has caring responsibilities. It might be motivated by actual differences between children, or perceived differences. Stopping violence and ensuring immediate physical safety is obviously a school's first priority but emotional bullying can be more damaging than physical; teachers and schools have to make their own judgements about each specific case.

Many experts say that bullying involves an imbalance of power between the perpetrator and the victim. This could involve perpetrators of bullying having control over the relationship which makes it difficult for those they bully to defend themselves. The imbalance of power can manifest itself in several ways, it may be physical, psychological (knowing what upsets someone), derive from an intellectual imbalance, or by having access to the support of a group, or the capacity to socially isolate. It can result in the intimidation of a person or persons through the threat of violence or by isolating them either physically or online.

This DfE definition includes:

- hurting, harming or humiliating of another person by physical (including sexual and sexist) means
- verbal bullying (including electronic media like chat room and SMS messages)
- emotional bullying (by excluding someone, tormenting them or spreading malicious rumours about them)
- manipulating other people to tease or torment someone
- complicity that falls short of direct participation in bullying.

Bullying may involve actions or comments that are racist, homophobic, religious or cultural and which focus on disabilities or physical attributes (such as their appearance, hair colour or body shape), or a person's sexuality.

Bullying can be a form of child on child abuse and staff should be aware that bullying could become a safeguarding issue. This policy should be read in conjunction with school's Safeguarding Policy - where minimising risks of child on child abuse are outlined, along with more specific support examples.

Using ICT in these ways is also bullying – we call it 'cyber-bullying' (see below for more information on cyber-bullying).

Bullying can happen anywhere and at any time – even in the very best schools with highly effective systems of pastoral care. Sometimes it is overt and can be intimidatory but it is often hidden and subtle. Whatever its nature, bullying is treated seriously at Ivy House because:

- it is against our ethos and values
- it is hurtful to others and to the school community
- it can cause great distress, unhappiness and psychological damage. At its worst, persistent and severe bullying can even lead to suicide
- we value and respect everyone's protected characteristics
- it can also be a criminal offence, for example if the behaviour amounts to harassment or to threatening behaviour

When any incidents of alleged bullying occur the school will consider the needs of the alleged victim(s) and perpetrator(s) in the context of our duty to promote pupil welfare. If necessary, the school will liaise with external agencies in order to ensure the right help is provided to respond to individual needs.

4. Cyber-Bullying

Cyber-bullying is:

- the sending or posting of harmful or cruel messages, texts, videos or images
- using the internet, including, but not limited to, social networking sites such as Facebook, Instagram and Twitter, email and blogs, gaming, wikis, text messages, twitter posts and instant messages to send cruel messages, texts, videos or images
- tampering or interfering with electronic files or data

- setting up or promoting inappropriate websites
- inappropriate sharing of images from webcams/mobile phones

As with other forms of bullying, cyber-bullying is wilful and is a conscious desire to hurt, threaten or frighten someone. It can be obvious or subtle, can take place over an extended period of time and is often more extreme than direct forms of bullying because the perpetrator frequently conceals their identity, thereby feeling safe from detection via anonymity.

The IT leader and school's IT technician install and utilise, in all IT equipment, all available and appropriate filters, firewalls and forms of personal protection where possible/necessary in school.

The IT leader and the school's IT technician are vigilant in their checks of ICT equipment and, if required, investigate any allegations of cyber-bullying immediately and thoroughly in order to establish concrete evidence wherever possible.

In instances of cyber-bullying, staff are advised to proceed as per the Anti-Bullying Policy just as they would in all other forms of bullying.

The school aims to work with parents and other agencies (e.g. the police neighbourhood school's officer) outside of the school community to prevent cyber-bullying and to identify and eliminate it where it occurs.

Pupils are taught about internet/electronic safety and about identity and personal data protection in PSHEE and ICT.

Pupils are not allowed as a general rule to bring mobile phones to school and in instances where this is allowed, these are handed in to their class teacher during the day.

5. Possible signs of bullying

Changes in behaviour that may indicate that a pupil is being bullied include:

- unwillingness to return to school
- displays of excessive anxiety, becoming withdrawn or unusually quiet
- failure to produce work, or producing unusually bad work, or work that appears to have been copied, interfered with or spoilt by others
- books, bags and other belongings suddenly go missing, or are damaged
- change to established habits (e.g. giving up music lessons, change to accent or vocabulary)
- diminished levels of self confidence
- frequent visits to the Medical Room or School Office with symptoms such as stomach pains, headaches
- unexplained cuts and bruises
- frequent absence, erratic attendance, late arrival to class
- choosing the company of adults
- displaying repressed body language and poor eye contact
- difficulty in sleeping, experiences nightmares
- talking of suicide or running away

Although there may be other causes for some of the above symptoms, a repetition of, or a combination of these possible signs of bullying should be investigated by parents and teachers.

6. How we deal with bullying.

Preventative measures:

- Use appropriate Assemblies to explain the school policy on bullying. Our PSHEE programme is structured to give pupils an awareness of their social and moral responsibilities as they progress through the school
- Utilise other lessons, such as RE, History, English and Drama to highlight the issue of bullying and reinforce this message by teaching moral and spiritual values that show bullying to be unacceptable and by developing social skills
- Staff are always on duty at times when pupils are not in class and patrol the school site, particularly areas where bullying might occur. They are trained to be alert to inappropriate language or behaviour
- A strong and experienced team of Class Teachers and the First Aid Officer, who support the Deputy Head and Headteacher to identify possible signs of bullying and to take appropriate action
- Our Headteacher and Deputy Head give support and guidance to other staff on handling and reporting incidents, and on the follow-up work with both victims and bullies
- We welcome feedback from parents and guardians on the effectiveness of our preventative measures
- The school acknowledges its responsibility to investigate incidents that take place outside school hours, on school visits and trips and that occur in the vicinity of the school, involving our pupils
- As part of general risk assessment arrangements the school will evaluate the potential for bullying incidents and take steps to reduce any perceived risks

Bullying outside school premises

Teachers have the power to discipline pupils for misbehaving outside the school premises “to such an extent as is reasonable”. This can relate to any bullying incidents occurring anywhere off the school premises and cyber-bullying.

Where bullying outside school is reported to school staff, it should be investigated and acted on by the Headteacher or Deputy Head. The Headteacher will also consider whether it is appropriate to notify the anti-social behaviour coordinator in their local authority of the action taken against a pupil or in extreme circumstances the police where it is thought the misbehaviour could be criminal or poses a serious threat to a member of the public, the police will always be informed.

In all cases of misbehaviour or bullying the teacher can only discipline the pupil on school premises or elsewhere when the pupil is under the lawful control of the staff member.

Procedures to follow to prevent and deal with bullying

In order to identify incidents of bullying and the identities of bullies, all staff watch for early signs of distress in pupils, and listen, believe (until otherwise proven) and act on any concerns raised by pupils. In severe cases, pupils who are found to have bullied others may be temporarily or permanently excluded in accordance with the School's Behaviour, Discipline and Exclusion Policy.

The following is a list of actions available to staff depending on the perceived seriousness of the situation.

Stage 1: Listen to a description of the problem. It is important that pupils feel able to discuss bullying without fear or retribution. Teachers need to consult carefully with pupils so that support can be provided without escalating the problem. Ensure that pupils are aware that some information may need to be disclosed to others and how that information may be used.

Stage 2: Investigate the bullying. Identify the alleged bully/bullies. Obtain witnesses if possible.

Stage 3: Discussions with the alleged bully to ask them to tell the truth about the situation/incident. Make it clear that bullying is never tolerated at Ivy House School.

Stage 4: If they 'own up' then, in the first instance, anyone who exhibits bullying behaviour will be asked to talk about their actions and encouraged to find ways to change it. Everyone involved has responsibility for helping them to do this.

Stage 5: If they do not own up escalate to investigation to a senior level and take advice, when necessary, from external agencies as considered appropriate in the circumstances.

Stage 6: Separate discussions with parents of alleged bully and alleged victim. Alleged victims may need to deal with their feelings and will be offered methods of support. Except for the most straightforward cases in which truth has been established and the matter has been resolved swiftly, discussions will generally be conducted by the class teacher or Head Teacher. A record will be kept of the interview and what is said to be corroborated. Notes, a brief summary and copies of any letters sent to parents will be put on file, with cross referencing as appropriate.

Stage 7: Where the Headteacher deems it appropriate, sanctions for the bully will be put in place, depending upon the perceived severity of the incident(s). The Headteacher will make a professional judgement on the perceived severity. Strong sanctions such as exclusion may be necessary in cases of severe and persistent bullying. The Headteacher will contact one of the Senior Educational Advisers or the School's Operational Advisor at APG Head Office if they feel it is necessary.

Letters written to parents of the pupils directly involved will detail the nature of the offence and any sanctions imposed and will set out the improvements the School expects to be made in behaviour (with reference to the School's Behaviour Policy) as well as the consequences of failure to improve. Wherever possible the identity of informers, and pupils other than the daughter of the parent, will not be disclosed.

Stage 8: Where appropriate, and with consent from the parents, bullies may be referred to an Educational or Behavioural Psychologist.

Stage 9: Continue monitoring the situation by observing at playtime/lunchtimes and having discussions with the victim to ensure that there is no repetition. Both the bully and the victim will be monitored to ensure positive relationships are built and maintained.

Stage 10: Both the victim and bully require support, which may include one-to-one counselling. The school would seek advice from an outside specialist.

Counselling can help prevent anticipated problems occurring. It can help children cope with an ongoing problem which is outside their control and can help resolve or minimise problems / behaviour presented in school.

Stage 11: The situation will be monitored carefully to prevent it recurring.

If bullying is repeated, or persists, or in severe cases, pupils may be temporarily or permanently excluded in accordance with the School's Exclusion Policy.

Procedure in the EYFS

The procedure outlined in 5.1 applies for pupils in the EYFS, with the caveats that both the classroom practitioners and the Head Teacher will tailor their language and approach appropriately to ensure that:

- the alleged bully can fully understand what went wrong, and why she must not repeat offensive behaviour
- the victim understands that they are not at fault

If the bullying is severe, repeated, or persists, EYFS pupils may be temporarily or permanently excluded in accordance with the School's Exclusion Policy.

It should be noted that staff in Early Years settings are duty bound to 'look beyond the setting' in respect of the behaviours young children are bringing into the setting and to raise discussions with parents and carers in order to respond to inappropriate behaviours or activities.

7. Actions/Sanctions

In all cases of bullying, parents of the bully will be tactfully informed of the situation and will be expected to support the school's sanctions.

These disciplinary sanctions reflect the seriousness of the incident and convey a deterrent effect.

Where bullying occurs as part of a larger behavioural problem, pupils may be placed on an Individual Behaviour Plan (IBP), listing targets for expected behaviour and sanctions applied should targets not be met. The IBP will be drawn up with active involvement from the pupil in question and the class teacher. The IBP will be circulated to all staff involved with the child concerned and discussed at subsequent staff meetings during Pupil Feedback sessions. A copy of the IBP will be kept in the pupil's file.

Sanctions will be in accordance with the school's Behaviour Policy. As noted above, strong sanctions such as exclusion may be necessary in cases of severe and persistent bullying (in accordance with School's Behaviour, Discipline and Exclusion Policy).

The following sanctions may be used within the nursery:

- The child will be made aware of what they have done and apologise
- Monitor the situation
- Speak to parents

Where incidents of bullying have occurred, the Headteacher will follow-up within two weeks and again within the following half term to ensure that there are no repeat incidents.

All incidences of bullying or alleged bullying will be recorded in writing; only the Headteacher may update this log. Records of discussions will also be kept in the pupil's file on SIMS. If the incident involved bullying on the basis of protected characteristics, this is also recorded on the pastoral log. A record of serious sanctions will be completed by the Deputy Head too to ensure robust systems of logging behaviour.

Strategies for the prevention and reduction of bullying

Initiatives and proactive teaching strategies will be used throughout the school, dependant on the age range, to develop a positive learning environment with the aim of reducing the opportunities for bullying to occur.

- Each class go over the Ivy House School's Way at start of each academic year. These must be displayed in the classroom.
- Ivy House School's Way are celebrated in each week in assembly with our achievement certificates.
- PSHE scheme of work used to support this policy.
- Circle time on bullying issues.
- Mentoring/buddies for children between older and younger children as required.
- Lessons focusing on bullying, for example in English, PSHE, RE (values/rules).
- Using drama activities and role-plays to help children be more assertive and teach them strategies to help them deal with bullying situations.
- Using praise to reinforce good behaviour.
- Encouraging the whole school community to model appropriate behaviour towards one another.
- Organising regular anti-bullying training for all staff.
- All staff are responsible for ensuring that all pupils, irrespective of ability, ethnic origin, belief and social circumstances are supported.
- If required, the pupil may receive extra support outside of the classroom to support with pastoral needs.

Creating a positive culture

The entire school community, governors, staff, volunteers, children and parents work together to promote a positive culture of tolerance and respect amongst the whole community.

At Ivy House School

- We foster healthy and respectful relationships for all.
- Everyone has a part to play in ensuring that abusive behaviour is never acceptable and that everyone contributes to creating a safe environment.
- Children should feel able to share their concerns in an open and non-judgemental environment and that staff are trained to develop these trusting relationships.
- Staff encourage positive qualities in students and encourage them to attain their goals and ambitions.
- Staff should respond to cases of bullying promptly and appropriately. This involves informing the Deputy Head so that they can spot concerning trends and patterns in behaviour and offer additional support to children.
